

Boys Who "Killed" For a Thrill" Are Ordered to Jail

Chicago's Millionaires' Sons Taken Away From Custody of State's Attorney—Each Blames the Other.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Chicago, June 2.—Chief Justice Caverly today ordered Leopold and Loeb taken away from State's Attorney Crowe and placed in the custody of the sheriff, who was ordered to take them to the county jail without bail. This order has the effect of imprisoning the confessed slayers by due process of law and of permitting them to be seen by attorneys retained by their families.

Further hearing of petitions for writs of habeas corpus was set for today.

Anticipating any attempt to plead insanity, State's Attorney Crowe called in four alienists for examination of Loeb and Leopold. Doctors William O. Krohn, Hugh T. Patrick, Archibald Church and Ludwig Reckton, the latter of the University of Chicago, where both the accused youths were students.

The legal sanity of the pair can easily be proved, was the statement of Dr. Krohn after questioning them.

Strong exception was taken to this move by the defense attorneys. Wheels of the mill of justice through which the state's attorney's office expects to grind out death sentences for two millionaires' sons started whirling today.

While the coroner's jury met to determine the manner in which 13-year-old Robert Franks met his death, the state marshalled the array of evidence on which it will ask murder indictments against Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, his confessed slayers.

"Killers for a thrill," the youths termed themselves in their own admissions. They confessed that the kidnapping and slaying of the Franks boy were conceived "in a spirit of adventure."

How the $25,000,000 represented by Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, and the families of the two brilliant University of Chicago students paid for the slaying, will make the approaching legal battle one in which expense is spared, was indicated by the retention for the defense of Clarence Darrow and Ben Bachrach, nationally known criminal attorneys.

On the other side of the legal scales which will weigh two lives against a brutal killing will be thrown all the brilliance the state's attorney's office can muster, together with what aid the bereaved millionaire father may lend.

State's Attorney Crowe guarded against the introduction of the information he holds against the prisoners at the coroner's inquest by curt refusal to allow young Leopold and Loeb to confer with their counsel prior to the inquest. He insisted that it was the sole duty of the coroner to determine the cause of the Franks boy's death.

That it was Loeb, himself, a second cousin of the slain boy, who wielded the cold chisel wrapped with surgical tape by which Robert Franks was struck down, was the charge hurled by Leopold in an amplified confession.

He admitted that he himself wrote the meticulously phrased letter by which it was hoped to extort $10,000 from Jacob Franks, even after his son's death.

"It was all Loeb's idea," he exclaimed bitterly. "I realize that I am equally guilty and that we both face the same penalty. It gets me nothing, then, to accuse him."

"Nevertheless, he planned the kidnapping and I helped carry it out by writing the extortion letter. Yes, I wrote it—every word of it."

"It was Loeb, though, who enticed the boy into the car and it was Loeb who struck him on the head the next instant. Why, weapons which might injure a person are so repugnant to me that I loathe the sight of them."

His face contracted in a spasm of hate as he spat out:

"Tell Loeb that my one regret is that I find him so weak as to accuse me and that I know the reason." He blinks that by proving me the actual slayer he will go free.

"Tell him that I know the law and that I am merely amused by his flourishes. We are both principals in the first degree, and there is no forgiveness."

It was in a darkened room where Loeb was brought after hours of questioning that prosecutors, assistants and detectives by careful questioning conjured up the picture of the murdered boy and led Loeb to confess. It was revealed today. Leopold's suave assurance deserted him shortly later. Each charged the other with the actual killing.

A tour of the territory covered in the confessions, from the time the Franks boy was picked up en route from the Harvard school May 21, until his nude body had been placed in a water filled culvert, brought to light the boy's belt. Leopold took detectives to the place where it had been buried, in a field near Hessville, Indiana, a few miles from Hammond.

The boy's shoes had been found previously in the field where they were thrown. His clothes, according to the confessions, were burned in the furnace of the Loeb home.

Three fortunes will throw their weight on either side of the counsel table in the legal proceedings which start today. Nathan E. Leopold, Sr., president of the Fiber Can Company, and Loeb's father, Albert H. Loeb, is vice-president of Sears, Ro-

Eight Killed in Wabash Wreck

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Williamsport, Indiana, June 2.—Eight persons were killed and between forty and fifty injured early today when a crack Wabash passenger train crashed into a west bound freight train on a siding west of here.

The dead included Rabbi P. Goldberg of 205 East Broadway, New York.

The train was a passenger train, northbound from St. Louis to Detroit, leaving St. Louis at 6:30 o'clock last night and scheduled to arrive in Detroit at 7:15 this morning.

The passenger coaches were telescoped by the crash into the freight and many passengers scalded. The injured, several of whom may die, were rushed to hospitals in Williamsport and Danville.

W. H. Eckhart, superintendent of the Wabash, issued a statement today placing responsibility for the wreck upon Davis E. Torrence, brakeman of freight train Number 91.

The freight train was ordered on the sidings at Williamsport and because of its length was split and placed on two sidings. The switch at the second siding was left unlocked, Superintendent Eckhart said. Train Number 50, another fast north bound passenger, passed over the unlocked switch without trouble. When the northbound Detroit flyer struck it, the engine, baggage car and express car passed over safely. The remaining five coaches—a smoker, chair car and three Pullmans, split the switch and crashed into the freight engine.

The first car, telescoping over the massive engine, tore the steam jacket from the engine, freeing live steam over the imprisoned passengers. Most of the injured were caught in the scalding blasts.

All of the cars remained upright, though telescoped, as the heavier Pullmans shot forward through the smoker and chair cars. The track was torn up for a distance of 300 feet.

Trolley Road to Get Increased Fare Soon

Official Announcement of Public Service Commission Expected to be Handed Down Within a Few Days Granting Company Eight Cent Fare, to go into Effect Shortly.

Unofficial information, apparently authentic, which has reached The Freeman indicates that Kingston's trolley riders will have to pay an eight cent fare this summer, and that the state public service commission will shortly hand down a decision to that effect.

The commission met recently in executive session to discuss the application of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company for an increased fare. The decision reached will be made public within a few days. The increased fare is expected to go into effect shortly thereafter.

The Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company made application to the public service commission for a 10 cent fare the latter part of 1923, and several hearings were held in the matter.

The last hearing was held early in February of this year. At the first hearing in 1923, opposition to the application was made by Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill on behalf of the city. The first of the present year Morris Block assumed office as mayor and the late William J. Brinnier, Sr., was appointed corporation counsel. At the hearings before the public service commission in Albany the city was represented by Attorney Andrew J. Cook, who appeared in behalf of Mr. Brinnier, the latter being confined to his home by illness which later resulted in his death.

Shortly after the death of Mr. Brinnier, Mayor Block appointed Judge James Jenkins corporation counsel and he vigorously opposed the granting of the trolley road's application.

All of the hearings in the matter were held before Commissioner Parsons, who is no longer a member of the commission. It is said that the reason for the long delay in handing down a decision in the matter was due to the fact that Mr. Parsons, who heard all of the testimony at the hearings, was no longer a member of the commission.

At the various hearings, former Commissioner Parsons stated emphatically that he did not favor a 10 cent trolley fare, and expressed the belief that the other members of the commission held the same opinion.

At all of the hearings the trolley road was represented by Attorney Howard Chipp and General Manager G. Burton Tellow.

The present trolley fare is seven cents. Car tickets could be purchased, however, up to within the past few days, at the rate of $1 for a book of 16 tickets.

It is understood that the new rate to be fixed by the public service commission calls for a straight fare of eight cents with no reduction for tickets.

Congress Enters Its Last Week

Legislative Jam as First Session of Sixty-eighth Congress Nears End—Super-human Task to Finish Everything.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—The sixty-eighth Congress entered the last scheduled week of its first session today facing an almost unsurmountable barrier of unfinished legislation.

Two courses were open to administration leaders. The first was to close shop next Sunday noon, abandoning the legislative jam, and go home with the bonus and the tax reduction bill as their outstanding achievements. The other was to wade through a ponderous program at top speed, enact the desired legislation and adjourn with all fancies pacified. The latter, however, was a super-human task, to all appearances.

Because the first course was the most likely intent of administration leaders, threats of a filibuster were heard from factions which hoped to force enactment of their pet measures. The success of any filibuster depended, though, on the attitude of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, who has wielded a tremendous influence on the present Congress by his leadership of the insurgent "balance of power."

La Follette was to make known his verdict on adjournment in a speech from the floor of the senate. Until that moment comes, even administration leaders were in doubt about adjournment.

Three dissatisfied groups featured the senate demand for a summer session. They represented factions urging enactment of substantial farm relief legislation, the passage of the Borah reclamation bill providing relief for western irrigation projects and the insurgent following itself, which demanded passage of the Howell-Barkley bill, abolishing the railroad labor board.

The senate legislative jam was heavier than that in the house. In the upper branch a dozen important measures waiting action. Others included the child labor amendment to the constitution, the $125,000,000 "bigger navy" bill, the disposition of Muscle Shoals, the reclassification of the civil service and an effort to reenact the vetoed Bureau pension bill. The house faced only a decision on farm relief legislation.

Stockholders of New Hotel Will Meet Friday

Those Who Pay 15 Per Cent of Subscription, Now Due. Entitled to Participate in Organization of Hotel Corporation Friday Night.

Stockholders of Kingston's new hotel who make their initial payment of fifteen per cent will meet at the Y. M. C. A. building at eight o'clock Friday night to take the preliminary steps toward organizing the new hotel corporation.

First Payment Due Now.

The initial payment on stock which has been subscribed for became due today, and on behalf of the executive committee the following notice has been sent to subscribers by Frank R. Powley, treasurer:

On behalf of the Executive Committee, I thank you for your subscription to the preferred stock for the erection of the New Hotel for Kingston. We who have been working on this project for several weeks, are convinced that it will prove to be one of the best community investments ever made by our citizens.

The first payment on the stock subscribed through the Executive Committee is due today and in view of the fact that it is necessary to complete our agreement for the purchase of the building site within a few days, a prompt response from the stockholders on this first payment will be greatly appreciated.

The Executive Committee pledge their very best efforts in pushing this project with as much speed as is consistent with good business methods.

Please make your check payable to F. R. Powley, treasurer, mailing it in care of the Chamber of Commerce, 442 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

Sincerely yours,
F. R. POWLEY,
Treasurer.

What Stockholders Must Do.

Now that Kingston has determined by a big majority that the new hotel shall become a reality instead of remaining a dream, the first thing for stockholders to do is to organize their corporation.

Therefore, at Friday night's meeting, the details of organizing the new hotel corporation, including the selection of local directors, will be taken up for action.

The name of the hotel itself can be determined later, and a number of stockholders who realize the psychology and value of a name as a business asset are in favor of proceeding slowly in this matter unless a name suggests itself whose appropriateness and trade value at once become apparent.

Notice of Stockholders' Meeting.

Herbert Carl, Frank R. Powley and Arthur J. Burns, constituting the committee on organization, have sent the following notice to subscribers of stock:

To the Subscribers to Stock of Kingston Community Hotel:

Now that the requisite stock subscriptions have been made, the next step is to incorporate our company. The following are the important matters to determine:

- (1) The name of the proposed corporation (the name by which the hotel shall be known can be determined later).
- (2) The authorized capital stock, having in mind possible extension later.
- (3) The number of directors. It is suggested that there be twelve, of which six shall be chosen from among local share holders, the other six to be suggested by the American Hotel Company.
- (4) The naming of the local directors.

These are matters which would be determined by stock vote had stock been already issued; until that time it is thought fair that voting power should be in the subscribers to stock who have made their initial payment of 15 per cent or who will have made such payment at the time of the meeting below called.

You will therefore take notice that a meeting of the subscribers to the stock of the above named hotel corporation will be held at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 p. m. on Friday, June 6, 1924, to determine the matters above specified and such other matters as may affect the incorporation; that voting will be confined to subscribers who shall at such time have made their initial payment, voting right in proportion to stock subscription, and voting to be by subscriber in person or by proxy in writing filed.

It is desirable that as large a representation be had as possible. If you cannot attend in person, please sign enclosed proxy and hand or mail to someone who will be present, or any member of the committee.

HERBERT CARL,
FRANK R. POWLEY,
ARTHUR J. BURNS,
Committee on Organization.

Benedictine Auxiliary Meeting.

Nine Prisoners In Police Court

Owens Spain, Who Was Carved Saturday by Two Negroes, Failed to Appear and Judge Groves Issued Warrant for His Arrest—Other Cases.

Owens Spain, the negro who was carved with a razor and penknife in the hands of Sarah 'Dickens' and Mary Cherry, two negroes of No. 126 Broadway, Saturday morning, failed to appear in police court today when the case was called, and Judge Robert G. Groves issued a warrant for the arrest of Spain for failure to obey a subpoena. The hearing was adjourned to Friday morning. Both negroes furnished bail for their appearance. They claim that Spain forced an entrance to the house, which caused them to carve him up. He was not seriously injured.

Edwin Lester, of New York, arrested for speeding, forfeited $15 cash bail for failure to appear in court.

Robert E. Swart of New York forfeited $10 cash bail for failure to answer to a speeding charge.

Louis Cook of Catskill forfeited $15 for the same reason.

Charles A. Garvin of Brooklyn, arrested for speeding, forfeited $15 cash bail for failure to appear.

Thomas Carroll, found drunk on Elmendorf street Sunday by Officer Deegan, was given five days in the county jail.

John Corkery, arrested Saturday evening by Officer Hess on a charge of public intoxication, paid a $5 fine.

John Barkley, a negro, was found drunk in the gutter in front of No. 126 Broadway by Officer Keresman. He was given twenty days in the county jail.

Less Activity in Real Estate

That there has been quite a falling off in transactions in realty in Ulster county is shown by the falling off in the number of deeds and mortgages for record in the office of the Ulster county clerk during the month of May.

During last month there were 342 deeds, releases, wills and other transfers filed, against 425 during May, 1923, over 100 less.

The mortgages filed during May this year were fewer by 102 than in the corresponding month last year, the numbers being as follows:

May, 1924—282.
May, 1923—385.

Everybody Going To Paltz Pageant

Front all sections of New York state people are journeying to New Paltz to be present at the big pageant Tuesday which will mark the part which that ancient village will take in the Ter-centenary Huguenot-Walloon celebration which is now in progress along the Atlantic seaboard.

The New Paltz pageant will depict the events leading up to the settling of New Paltz and some of the most important events of its early history. The entire faculty and student body of the State Normal School is taking part in the pageant as well as a majority of the New Paltz residents, and the entire pageant will be projected at enormous cost which is being borne by the people of the village.

Most famous of the scenes which will be shown as part of the pageant will be the rescue of Catherine Dubois, wife of Louis Dubois, the patroness, from the Indians at the instant when she was about to be burned at the stake to satisfy the Red Men's thirst for blood. The story is too well known to need repetition, but not an incident of dramatic interest has been lost sight of in preparing for the pageant.

Costumes, scenery, music and everything else will combine to make the pageant epoch-making among historical pageants, and Kingstonians who attend will feel well repaid.

The New Paltz celebration lasts throughout the day and into the evening, and there will be interesting features to command the attention of everyone.

Two Women Hurt In Auto Upset

Mrs. Wilbur Sniffin of Malden and Mrs. Howard Embler of Newburgh, were injured when the auto in which they were riding upset on the New Paltz-Kingston state road near Rifton Saturday evening. Their husbands, who were also in the car, escaped with a shaking up. Both women were hurried to the Kingston city hospital. Mrs. Sniffin was cut about the head and her body was bruised, she was expected to leave the hospital today. Mrs. Embler sustained a bump on the nose and other slight injuries and was able to leave the hospital Sunday. The two women were hurried to the hospital by Miss Jeanette Hutton of this city who was passing in her auto soon after the accident. Thieves stripped the car before a wrecking crew reached it Sunday morning.

Holiday Traffic Was Very Heavy

Memorial Day Tourists Travelling to Catskills Turned Away at Local Hotels—Mountain Houses Report Good Business—But Few Accidents Reported.

Although the sky was overcast at times and a cold wind had been blowing, the last week-end vacationists paid little heed to the weather and thousands of visitors from the cities have been spending the holiday season in the Catskill and Shawangunk mountains. The traffic to the mountains which began last Thursday morning, has continued practically without interruption. Traffic from the south has been very heavy. At 10 o'clock one evening the line of waiting cars at Rhinecliff extended as far as the station but the ferry made additional trips until all were carried across the river.

Boarding houses in the mountains report good business and many of the places were compelled to turn away guests. Decoration Day coming near the week-end caused many parties to leave the city and spend the week-end in the country.

The local hotels have been full and many parties have been turned away during the evening. Effort was made to secure rooms in private houses for parties and many were thus taken care of. The rush compelled hotel clerks to keep busy locating rooms where travellers could secure lodging. Many who were unable to secure rooms were compelled to "continue on their journey and seek lodging at the nearby country boarding houses for the night.

Garages in the city were filled with cars and many cars were parked in the parking grounds over night.

Had the weather been more favorable, the crowds would have been much larger but as it was, there was difficulty in securing quarters for the tourists. The detour to the south of Kingston on the Kingston Highland road caused delay to many who were not familiar with the road and was the cause of many parties arriving late at their destinations.

In spite of the heavy traffic over the roads, many of which have been made very slippery by recent oiling and the constant rains, there were few accidents reported. At various danger points traffic officers were stationed to keep traffic moving in an orderly manner and this regulation of traffic was very instrumental in preventing serious accidents.

Parked Car in Ditch THEN FELL ASLEEP

State troopers on Saturday evening arrested Frank Cully and Ralph Joslin, the latter from Greene county, on a charge of public intoxication. The arrests were made in the town of Ulster, the two men being found in an automobile parked in a ditch alongside of the Kingston-West Hurley road. They will be taken before Justice of the Peace James E. Kennedy some time today.

Big Celebration Begins at Albany

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

The ancient replica of Hendrick Hudson's Half Moon is anchored in the river that bears his name, and Hendrick Hudson himself is ready to land at the site of Fort Orange. Swarms of Indians, Dutch Huguenot and English settlers wait behind the scenes.

City, state and nation join in the events of today and tomorrow. The Shenandoah, the navy's biggest dirigible, will fly over the city tomorrow.

Albany is celebrating its birthday with pageantry, speeches, bands and aquatic sports. Its principal streets are decorated as never before and thousands are pouring into the city for the celebration.

back & Company. Jacob Franks is a retired manufacturer.

They are smart alecks, these two young men, in the opinion of Dr. W. O. Krohn, alienist at the University of Chicago. He believes after questioning them that their superior advantages, and the fact that they had been called intellectual, had convinced them they were smart enough to commit an atrocious crime so cleverly that they could not be found out. Leopold today was still blasé, sneering, cocky. Loeb was grave, afraid, worried. The two attitudes are similar, however, experts said. Loeb shows that he is worried. Leopold, egotistic, is whistling as he passes the cemetery. His courage is being kept up by his own efforts.

The two friends plotted, according to their own stories, for nine months to take the life of a little child. The two who had been bosom friends, turned strong enemies today. They glared openly at each other when they met on the way to a police office.

And that is because each has accused the other of striking the fatal blow.

Leopold, the sneering, blasé one of the pair, scornfully berated Loeb when he heard his companion attempted to pass him the blame for the killing.

"Why, we are equally guilty. Tell him that will not save him," Leopold declared.

"He lies," said Loeb when told that Leopold accused him. "He lies and he knows it."

Prof. Rieser 40 Years Organist

Prayers for his recovery were offered and the people of the parish were asked to add their private petitions for his regained health. Father Scully presented to Prof. Rieser at the Benedictine Hospital 40 beautiful roses as remembrances of his 40 years of service.

“Cinderella” Was Very Pleasing

“Cinderella” was presented at the school house in West Park on the night of May 29 by the members of the Junior American Red Cross.

The room was crowded and the audience enthusiastic over the very creditable acting by the children who were not over 11 years old. The play was pretty, especially the scene in the ball room where the whole class danced the minuet, the bright colored costumes making a very lovely effect.

The grand march was led by Master Howard Kestner, four years old, in black velvet suit, carrying a trumpet. He was followed by the king and queen, Miss Grace Olivet and Sam Mott, and their attendants.

Miss Marjorie Walters, Cinderella, was charming, looking very pathetic sitting by the fire in her rags and very lovely when the rags were changed to the ball dress by the fairy godmother, Miss Alice Jones. Master Percy Ackert, Jr., the prince, was most gallant as he led Cinderella to her place in the dance.

Miss Helen Kniffin, the stepmother, stern and exacting to poor Cinderella, was indulgent and smiling to her daughters, the proud step-sisters, Miss Elena Ryder and Miss Clelia Marveggio.

In another scene three fairies, the Misses Hilda Osberg, Agnes Bennett and Winifred Walters came dancing in to do the housework in Cinderella's absence, singing “Cinderella cannot play, Cinderella works all day.” The chorus behind the scenes joined in, then Master Anthony Vale and Master David Travers joined in the dance as gentlemen in waiting to the king and queen.

The first number on the program was a very charming song by Miss Grace Olivet, with violin obligato played by Tom Towill. Miss Jacqueline Towill at the piano, and after the play Miss Grace Olivet gave a most graceful exhibition of toe dancing.

The performance was closed by the singing of the Vacation Song by all the boys of the school.

Miss Redmond, teacher of the West Park school, who drilled the final rehearsals, announced the program and acted as prompter, although her duties in this way were light, the children remembering the parts perfectly.

Mrs. Gilbert Ackert and Mrs. Alice DuMont, who assisted in dressing the children, have been indefatigable in their work of helping to make the costumes.

Colonials Are Hard Hitters

Clouts in Sunday's Contest
Best Fast Colored Team—Deegan Plays Wonderful Game as Backstop.

The Colonials took the measure of the Chaplin Johnson Colored Stars at the Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon in a game replete with sparkling plays, nerve-racking situations, sensational hitting, and everything else that goes to make the game of baseball fast, interesting and exciting. Going into the ninth inning in a 5-5 tie, the Colored Stars hammered out two runs and appeared to have the game safely put away. But Manager Schrick's charges never stopped fighting, and proved to be a game out. Led by Flynn with his slashing two base blow, and aided by an infield error, the locals pounded the ball hard and snatched victory from the Stars' eager hands with a three run rally.

Credit for the game must be divided among several Colonials. Bill Schlaw and Matty Deegan were the hitting heroes. Bill put the game back on an even footing after the Stars had set up a one run lead by slugging the ball over the right field barrier for the circuit. He contributed a hit in each of the big rallies in the sixth and ninth innings. Matty Deegan started the big racket in the sixth with his line single to center and fattened his batting average with two other one base blows. Bobby Coyle's big bat was also very much in evidence, especially in the ninth when, with the tying run on third and the winning counter perched on second, Bob strode to the plate and blasted the hopes of the Stars with a drive over Howard's head. It was the eighth consecutive game this season in which Bob Coyle has hit safely. Jack Robins was forced out of the game in the third inning with an injured shoulder. Johnson and Pierce essayed a double steal and Jack whipped the ball to Deegan at second and on taking the return to the plate and tagging the runner, Jack relieved his injury. Pierce came into Jack and caught the Colonial catcher on the left shoulder with his knee. Jack went on catching for a minute but the pain was too great and he had to drop his mitt and retire. Doctors examining the shoulder could not determine whether the collar bone was fractured or the muscles torn loose. Whatever it turns out to be, the injury will keep the Colonial captain out of the game for a month and his services will certainly be missed.

Matty Deegan proved his worth to the Schrickmen Sunday. Upon Robins' injury, Matty was called in to take his place behind the plate. He hasn't done much catching in over five years but he demonstrated that he hasn't gone back a bit from the time when he was playing backstop as his regular position. He caught Culliton and Morgan in fine style and cut down two ambitious base-runners who tested out his arm. His second peg which caught Fels stealing was especially brilliant. Matty has ever played a steady and clever game but this season promises to be his best. He is hitting the ball right on the "nose" and to date his batting average is .406, something to write home about.

Bobby Coyle and Raskin also showed real versatility. Bob taking Deegan's place at second and Raskin switching to first. Both played fine games in their new positions and the patched-up team didn't show any glaring weaknesses in the six fast innings they passed with the Stars. "Smiling Pat" Coutant started for the locals but found the going rather tough. He was touched up for four hits and the same number of runs during his stay on the mound and it was Ewing's homer over the left field fence with one man on base that sent Pat from the game. It just wasn't his day. But Culliton took up the twirling burden after Coutant and worked along nicely until the seventh. But Dnd had pitched 10 innings against the highly touted bobber. Silk Sox only two days before and he developed a sore arm during the sixth session. Jack Morgan finished the battle and to him must be given credit for the victory as the score was tied when he went in the game. That was his fourth straight win.

The Colored Stars went into the lead right at the start. Howard was rounded by one of Coutant's shots and trotted to first. Warmack sacrificed him along and Ewing's double sent the first tally across the rubber. That was the first of three fine hits by the big catcher, his day's harvest being a double, a triple and a circuit. But in five trips to the plate, Bill Schlaw undertook the task of tying the score in the second inning and found that he was able and capable of doing the work single handed. Bill hit a left fielder but he pulled one of Pierce's fast ones around and sent it over the right field wall. That helped a lot in keeping the fighting Colonials' spirit up to par.

Pierce lounced a hit off Coutant's glove to open the third. Howard big down a sacrifice and Warmack belted to Raskin. Johnson singled down the third base line, Pierce stopping at the far corner. With two strikes on Ewing, Johnson started for second and when Jack pegged to Deegan, Pierce cut for the plate. Matty's return throw was perfect and it looked as if the runner was out. Fitzsimmons called him safe however. On this play Robins' shoulder was injured. With the count on the latter two strikes and no balls, Coutant tried to slip a third one past the big backstop and Ewing poled the ball over the left field fence for one of the longest home runs ever hit on the Fair Grounds field. Robins retired after this and Culliton took Coutant's place on the mound. Dean hit to Dewey and was thrown out at first to end the inning. But Rob not past the fourth inning and a fast double played saved him from trouble in the fifth. Pierce was out, Flynn to Raskin. Howard singled to center field. On the hit and run, Warmack drove the ball right back at Bud who threw to Coyle and Bobby whipped the ball to "Tubby" Raskin, completing the play. Ewing opened the sixth inning with a triple to deep left field. He scored on Dean's safe drive to center. Hobson hit to Dewey and with a double play in front of him, Nelse booted the ball. Fels hit to Culliton, forcing Dean at third and Perry's fly to Raskin ended the inning.

The Schrick men put men on the base paths in the third, fourth and fifth innings but couldn't produce the punch to manufacture the much-needed runs until the sixth. After Raskin went out on a hard drive past sion and throw to Perry, Deegan started things with a single to center. Schwab drove over second base that Hobson touched but could not stop. Jimmy Morgan came through with a drive to left field which Warmack fielded nicely. Deegan passed third and came out to the plate and was easily caught by Warmack's pretty throw. It looked as though the rally was stopped. Coyle came through in the pinch with a single to left scoring Schwab. Morgan, Jack this time, was passed filling the bases. And that was the situation that faced the diminutive Leo Dugan when he strode to the plate with fire in his eye. Pierce had turned Leo away without a hit thus far and the little center fielder's pride was injured. He took it all out with one crack at the ball. He hit a looping drive between left and center field on which Fels foolishly tried to make a shoestring catch with the result that the ball rolled past him and went for three bases, three runs coming across, tying the score. Dewey tried hard to put the Colonials in the lead but his best effort was a fly which Ewing nailed.

Morgan was on the hill when the seventh opened. Howard hit to left field with one out. Warmack drove a hard grounder at Coyle which Bobby knocked down and recovered in time to get Howard at second. Johnson stopped one of Morgan's shoots with his ribs and two men were on. No only that, but Ewing, who had doubled on his first trip, crashed a long homer on his second and lined out a roaring triple on his third trip to the plate, was coming to the bat. Wisdom seemed to dictate that Morgan pass the big catcher and not take any chances. But the plucky southpaw worked hard on the big hitter and the count was soon two strikes and three balls. One fooled the "Babe" with a third one and ended the rally without a run being scored.

An error by Dean, Deegan's single to center and a base on balls to Jimmy Morgan filled the bases in the Colonial half of the seventh, but Coyle's bounder to Dean left the three runners stranded. Deegan shone in the first half of the eighth. Dean singled to center to start this session. Hobson tried hard to send Dean along with a sacrifice but was out bunting foul on the third strike. Dean tried to steal with Fels at the bat but was caught by Matty's throw to Dewey. Fels was hit by a pitched ball. He too tried to pilfer a base but found that Deegan's throw catching Dean was not an accident. Matty's peg to Dewey this time was perfect and Fels was out. The crowd gave Deegan a fine hand for his work this session.

The ninth inning was one that the fans will never forget. Perry was out on a fly to Dugan. Pierce singled and was forced at second by Howard. Morgan to Dewey. Howard stole second and came home on Warmack's triple to left field. Warmack scored on Johnson's single and the majority of the fans felt sure that the game was gone then. The Colonials might have been able to get one run back, but two; that was too much. Ewing walked. He was not passed intentionally either. Morgan worked the count to two and three before the big catcher got his free ticket to first. Coyle camped under Dean's high fly and the Stars' rally was ended.

Flynn started the ball rolling with a slashing double to left center. Raskin was out on a fly to Hobson. It looked all over when Deegan's hopper was cleanly fielded by Dean and the throw to the bag beat Matty. But Perry dropped the ball and Matty was safe, Flynn still on second. Schwab was "there" in the pinch and singled sharply to left field and sent Flynn across the plate. Deegan being held to second on the play. The winning run was now on first base. Jimmy Morgan was again at the plate with men on the bases and runs needed. He drove a hard one at Hobson, being thrown out at first but putting the tying run on third and the winning tally on second. A hit meant the ball game. Bobby Coyle came to the plate and after fouling off one ball, he took a cut at an inside ball and sent it looping over Howard's head into left and the game was "in." That was a ninth inning finish for the most rabid rooter.

The win yesterday brought the Colonials' streak up to seven straight. Four games this week and the Colonials want them all. Manager Schrick is hard pressed for pitchers. He cannot use Culliton and Morgan before Wednesday and does not want to use them before Thursday. If Corraigan and Perry and Coutant can carry the burden against the Cuban Stars tomorrow and the Middletown State Hospital aggregation Wednesday the pitching staff will be O. K. again.

K. H. S. Downed Englewood, 5 to 2

Locals Hit Timely and Make Lone Error of Game—Lawrence Pitches Good Ball, Being Very Effective in the Pinches.

Saturday afternoon the Kingston High School baseball team defeated the Englewood, New Jersey, High School team to the tune of 5 to 2. The game was peppy and fast throughout and kept the fans guessing.

The contest was started by C. W. Lewis, principal of Englewood High, and former principal of K. H. S.

Meek, the lead off man for the visitors, was struck out by Lawrence, who pitched a great game throughout. Clahan bunted, but Vogt was on the job and snapped the ball to McLane in time to get the runner. Paulsen got a clean hit through short and third. But he got no farther than first base. Alston being put out. The locals decided to get going at the start. Howard sent a hot liner past third for a single. He stole second, while Vogt struck out. Messinger raised a fly which was easily gathered in. Schmidt then knocked one out past second, which was good for two bases, and which sent Howard across. Trying to get Howard, the visitors left a hole for Schmidt, who went to third and came in when McLane's fly to right field was missed. McLane was caught at second on an attempted steal.

Brannan, captain of the visiting team, started off well in the second by knocking a home run over the bat sign. Things looked pretty bad for the locals in this inning. Murberg hit one which placed him on first. He stole second. Deleahanty struck out. Walker bunted and the whole of the local infield came in to get it. Lawrence picked it up and had no place to throw it to. Murberg was resting on third and Walker on first when the locals saw their mistake. Lawrence was in quite a hole, but he showed his ability when he struck out Miller.

He then had the head of the batting list to contend with. Meek knocked a fly to right field which should have been an easy out, but Ummrie missed it back of first base. Murberg went home, tying the score. Clahan was put out by McLane, ending the visitor's half of the inning. Ummrie was the first of the locals up and redeemed his error by making a fine single. "Phil" Hauser struck out. "Jole" Hoffman then knocked the ball far out into center field over the center fielder's head for three bags, driving in Ummrie.

Deleahanty then showed some good form, striking out both Lawrence and Hauser, Hoffman dying on third. The locals now had a one run lead which they held up to the eighth, when they increased it to a three run lead. Englewood did nothing in their half of the third inning.

Only three of the locals faced Deleahanty. The first three men faced Lawrence. The first struck out. The others sent liners to "Phil" Hauser and Lawrence. Both were fielded perfectly and resulted in put outs.

The locals did nothing in their turn at bat. McLane hit safely. Ummrie bunted to Deleahanty, who threw to second and caught McLane. Hauser hit to right field, putting himself on first and Ummrie on second. Hoffman struck out and Lawrence knocked one to the pitcher, who put him out at first, leaving two of the locals on bases.

Only three men faced Lawrence and Deleahanty in each of the following innings: Fifth, sixth and seventh. Lawrence had great support and did good work himself. His record is better still. Only eighteen men faced him in the last six innings. They were put out by good fielding or strike outs.

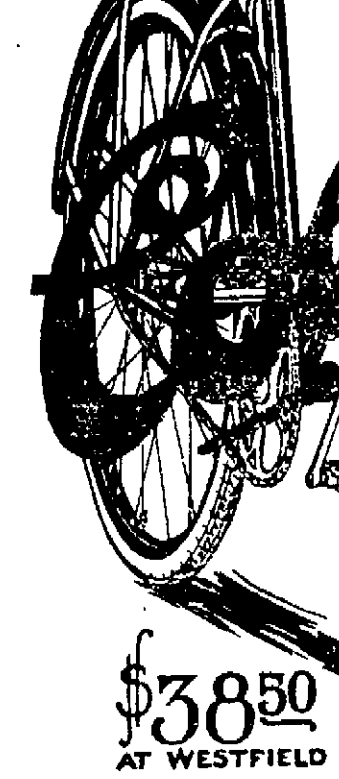

The locals added two runs to their total in the eighth, making the score 5 to 2. In the ninth the visitors tried hard to rally but could do nothing. Alston flied out to Schmidt. Brannan hit one to short left field and "Mike" Howard made a great "shoe string" catch of it, making the flustering bunch of the Englewood men get back to normalcy. Lawrence finished the game by striking the last man out.

Red Men Had Big Time at Warwick

Twenty-seven Kingstonians attended the meeting of the Hudson Valley Red Men's Council which was held Saturday. The trip was made in seven automobiles by way of Modena, Walden and Goslen. The May meeting of the council was held at Warwick where the visiting tribes were guests of the Warwick Tribe, I. O. R. M., and was attended by about 500 members of the different tribes of the district. The next meeting of the council will be held on August 30 at Catskill.

The adoption degree was put on the open by the famous degree team of Chatachochie Tribe of New York city. A banquet was served at 6 o'clock by the members of Mistake Council, Daughters of Pocahontas.

Dr. R. R. Thompson of Cornwall was present at the meeting and delivered one of the interesting addresses of the day. At the convention of the Great Council of Red Men which will be held at Binghamton this year, the local delegates will present and support Dr. Thompson for the office of Great Junior Sagamore of New York.

The Great Senior Sagamore Peter P. Prunty of New York also was present and delivered a very interesting address on Redmanship.

At the present time the membership of the Hudson Valley Association is about 1,500 and by August when the next meeting is held at Catskill it is expected that the membership will have reached 2,000 as the council is growing rapidly.

The visitors at Warwick were given a royal time by the Red Men of the town. There was a short parade and the open air adoption was a feature of the meeting. A band from Clayton, N. J., was present to keep the visitors in good humor.

Those who made the trip from this city Saturday were: C. Wynn, Charles Boughton, George Purdy, Gus Williams, Charles Jensen, John Bert, Hineckley, S. Straley, John Tremper, Frank Green, Abram Rappey, Albert Rappleyer, Henry Maeholdt, Joseph Dolson, Raymond Tatter, Mrs. Henry Maeholdt, Mrs. Maeholdt, Mrs. Laura Fox, Mrs. Straley, Harold Blanshan, Everett Blanshan, Mrs. Edwards, Earl Shufeldt, Mrs. Earl Shufeldt, Mrs. Tatter, Mrs. Hineckley, Mrs. Jensen.

HESSIANS IN AMERICA.

The news that a tract of land at Reading, Pa., known for nearly 150 years as "Hessian Camp," is to be sold and divided into building lots, calls to mind the practice of hiring foreign soldiers for war which has persisted from remote antiquity down to a very recent period. One of the most celebrated of historic instances was the employment of Greek mercenaries in his wars by the younger Cyrus of Persia, which was followed by the dramatic retreat through hostile regions of the Ten Thousand (Greeks) commanded by Xenophon and recorded in his famous work called by his name. A comparatively modern instance was the employment of Hessians by George III in his war to hold the revolted American colonies. There is pointed out in Virginia—with a smile—an old stone mansion built or finished by Hessian prisoners after the peace was signed, but in those days of slow communication this could have happened without voluntary injustice. The battle of New Orleans, by the way, was fought after the War of 1812 had formally ended, both General Jackson and the British commander being in ignorance of that fact.

The Hessian Camp at Reading, Pa., came into existence after Washington surprised and won a victory over Col. Rahl and his German mercenaries at Trenton, N. J., on Christmas Eve, 1776. About a thousand German prisoners were hurried across the Delaware and placed in a guarded camp at Reading. Of their life in the camp now to be divided into building lots the Reading Times says:

The prisoners were kept here for several years, guarded in later days by local patriots, who refused to accept pay for their services, but used some of the men in their fields. The mercenaries being hired troops from Germany, who had no interest in the fate of the war, soon built comfortable cottages on the mountain and were grateful to the townsmen who found work for them. Many became closely acquainted with the people of the city and several married Reading girls before the war was over. When peace was declared a large number of the Hessians refused to return to their former homes. Some of the foremost families of the city now trace their ancestry back to these soldiers of fortune who came to fight against America but remained to form its earliest pioneers and leaders.

These captive Germans, so long despised that the very name of Hessian became a word of reproach, merely followed the trade of other military mercenaries, ancient and modern, who enlisted under a foreign flag for pay, though the Hessians may not have been free agents to the same degree. The contract was made by George III and the German prince to whom they owed allegiance. But, like the Germans in the World War, they were unscrupulous plunderers and their depredations made many a lukewarm Colonist a strong supporter of the Revolution. Their employment by Great Britain was a bitter grievance of the revolted Americans and of course they were hated even more than the English. The Reading editor indicates that they were soon forgiven in that "Pennsylvania Dutch" neighborhood, but those who settled elsewhere in this country must have lived under a lasting cloud.

GLASS IS FOOLISH.

Senator Glass said recently that he would resign if he were President and could get no more support for his veto from his party than President Coolidge has had. In saying this he probably meant to be critical rather than literal, desiring to emphasize the lack of union in the Republican party and to show that there should be a more vigorous and jealous maintenance of Executive prerogatives than is now witnessed. For, unlike Prime Ministers, Presidents do not resign when defeated in their conflict with majorities in Congress. No President has ever resigned, though probably no few have thought of doing so in moments of discouragement, and probably more than one hostile Congressional majority would have been glad to drive a President to that extremity.

A President is elected for a fixed term and a resignation under such conditions as the present would look too much like a surrender to his opponents, and this, in effect, it would be. For he would not have a Prime Minister's means of direct and immediate appeal to the people to decide between him and Congress. The only way for a hostile Congress to get rid of a President is to impeach him, but this can be done only when he is guilty of high crimes. The failure of such an attempt even in the case of Andrew Johnson, in a period of passion and re-education, proved once for all that there are practically insurmountable difficulties to be overcome, and that the White House incumbent represents an independent and firmly established authority that must stand, however assailed and however powerful the assailants.

THE EYES AND MOTORING.

One of the first things I was taught as a youngster was that green was an easy color on the eyes, and that was why so much of Nature was green. The green leaves, the green grass, foliage of all kinds, the bluish green of the rivers, lakes and seas.

And so when the automobile salesman tells you what a wonderful thing it is for your whole system to get away from the city, with its paved streets and brick buildings, he is only telling you the truth. If we could all get out of the cities and live amid the green fields, it would be of great benefit to our whole nervous system. The constant steady view of everything but green has a wearing effect upon us.

However it is not color I want to talk about today, but the bad habit motorists have of gazing steadily at the road, for sometimes hours at a stretch.

I know you can't drive a motor car without keeping an eye on the road. You must watch out for other cars, and for the safety of those in your own car.

But what I refer to, is that you will often drive out into the country for miles, and all you see, except the road, is the occasional view you get of the speedometer.

Now I'm not thinking about the beautiful view you are missing, of all objects of interest unobserved by you. What I am thinking about is that you get to the end of your destination sometimes and have a slight headache. You can't blame your gas, nor the exhaust of other cars, for often you have had the road practically to yourself.

What's the matter? Did you ever hold your arm out to its fullest extent on a level with your shoulder?

In three to five minutes your shoulder muscle ached badly. Did you ever stop to think that although the eye can get tired from trying to look through a dusty windshield, that the real cause of your headache, in and over the eyes, is due to holding the eye in the one position?

It is exactly the same as holding out your arm. These little muscles holding and turning the eyes get tired if held in the one position for too long at a stretch. So when you strike a nice piece of road, free of other vehicles, with no steep ditches either side, why not take an occasional look at the scenery through which you are passing.

You may not make as many miles an hour as you would otherwise, but you'll find that motoring will not pall on you so soon.

You see you have been driving so long that you do everything automatically, and now that the roads are good, you arrive at your destination in good shape, because the driving really means no mental or physical effort.

Why not complete things by getting an occasional view of the country by driving slowly or letting some one else do some of it? It will mean longer life for your eyes and thus for your nervous system generally.

HENRY STEELE

IT WAS with the greatest interest I know her son's friends that John's mother boarded the train to pay her first visit to him since he had been at college. The name that she had come to know best from John's letters was Henry Steele. Henry Steele was a great man of that little world. John invited all his cronies to a party in his room to meet her the afternoon of her arrival. When things were at their height she found herself talking to a pleasant, quiet-mannered fellow, whose name she had not caught. He began by closing a draughty window at her back, and soon she realized that he was centering the conversation on John and John's achievements. Of course those were the fifteen minutes that made the afternoon a pleasant occasion to her.

Presently John interrupted them, excitedly. "Here's that new math instructor flunking all of us in mid-year's Henry!" So this was Henry Steele! She wondered how he would manage the emergency.

"Then he's more of a man than I suspected him of being," came back from Henry Steele, quick as a flash. "By Jehoshaphat, John—here we are, we few fellows, holding most of the offices in the class, and this new man, just out of college himself, has the nerve to dish us all. Get his point of view—see the risk of unpopularity he's running!"

"Young man," John's mother asked, "do you always consider the other person's point of view?"

"Yes," he answered, seriously, "as I figure it out, the other person's point of view is half of any situation."

Years passed and, on the death of his father, Henry Steele became head of a great manufacturing concern. Before long it became evident that the Henry Steele plants were better off than their competitors. Once Henry took John over the biggest of his factories, explaining the system to him. Everywhere they were greeted with pleasant words and genuine respect. Then Henry left John with his foreman for a few minutes in the office. John spoke of the spirit of the plant. "Oh," said the foreman, "that's Mr. Steele. Whenever any man in this shop has had to do with the boss he's come away feeling that he's had a hearing. Mr. Steele always considers the other fellow's point of view."

FANEUIL HALLFaneuil hall, named for Peter Faneuil, a public-spirited citizen and Huguenot, who, having decided that Boston needed a town hall in which to hold public gatherings, and a market place, commenced the construction of a building 76 feet square which combined these features, and presented it to the city in 1742.Twenty years later, the interior was destroyed by fire, but was promptly rebuilt, and dedicated to the "Cause of Liberty."The present building goes back to 1805, when its size was increased to 80 by 100 feet and an additional story added. The upper floor is used now as headquarters and a museum by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts—said to be the oldest military organization in the world. Among the priceless relics is a flag used in 1633 by this organization. The second floor contains the hall which may be used as a public meeting place by any group of citizens, free of charge, on request to the city authorities.During the Revolutionary war period, Faneuil hall was the scene of many tense gatherings. The hall was used as a place of amusement and entertainment by the officers of the British army in 1775 and 1776. Ever since the Revolution, it has been a popular gathering place and noted place for the holding of meetings, banquets and receptions. Its walls have echoed the voice of Daniel Webster, Wendell Phillips, and many other famous patriots of the time.Situated adjacent to the old State house, and huddled in between modern office skyscrapers in the heart of the business center of "Old" Boston, this comfortable-looking structure of colonial design, bearing evidence of advanced age, is possessed of a dignified appearance and a quiet charm.
A plan is now afoot to rehabilitate, fireproof, and "dress up" this venerable hall and thereby preserve its original beauty for another generation or two at least. While this work is in process, the wooden awning-like sheds which now disfigure this landmark of "ye olden times" will be dismantled and replaced by an iron veranda with a glass roof.With the single exception of Independence hall, Philadelphia, Faneuil hall is probably of greater historical interest than any other building in these United States.All pale, weak and run down people are asked to try Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron, in pleasant tablet form, for two weeks. If you

In 1888 he went to Pierre, S. D., to where he visited.He is believed to be the first Minnesotan to get into the World war.

In January of 1915 he enlisted in the French Foreign Legion. There he served for one year until October of that year when he was wounded in the Champagne attack near Ferme Navarin. He won the Serbian medal for bravery, the French Croix

Legion of Honor, a Congressional

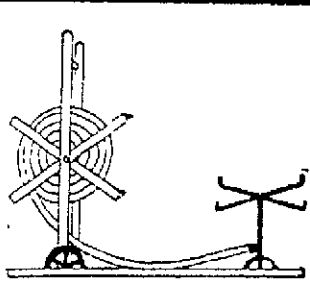

John Bowe.

Medal of Honor from President Mc-Kinley, and service medals for his service in the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection.Invalided home from his French service in 1916, Bowe found he had been "sold out" for nonpayment of a mortgage on his home and was forced to start all over again. But this did not daunt him, so he set about making a new home for his wife and family, and "carrying on" for them.Bowe was an American in the category of one who served with allied forces, and for whom special provision was made that they might enter the American Legion. He was present at the first department convention of Minnesota Legionnaires, and was chairman of the congressional district committee. Following this service Bowe went about the state organizing posts, about forty coming under his jurisdiction.When the national convention was held in Minneapolis Bowe was named to the eligibility committee and was a member of the sub-committee which prepared the present clause setting qualifications for membership. He was a delegate to the second national convention in Cleveland, O. One year he was candidate for the post of department commander, but was defeated. At the last department convention, held in Fairbault, he served on the resolutions committee.Legion Opens Night SchoolsIn combating illiteracy in the state,

Dr. Hubert N. Rowell, deputy grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. Elks, in addressing members of the Berkeley (Cal.)
post of the American Legion. "I have not come here to paint with red the azure skies. I am a loyal supporter of constituted government, and I am here to tell you of a need for a determined fight against communists and allied forces."He said that there are 15 recognized leaders of radicals in the United States. Under the direction of these crafty men are 1,500 sectional leaders, and beneath them are the followers of the movement. "The United States is a clearing house for radicalism with every shipbring-ing more radicals and more of their destructive literature," he said."At present these radicals are raising a fund of $2,000,000 in California, Nevada and Oregon for the purpose of carrying on their work of disrupting government," he declared. In closing, the speaker called upon the men of the Legion to again take up defense of their country against the menacing forces of I. W. W.
radicals and communists."FAILED TO CONFORM WITH BODY'S POLICYDaylight Post, 220, Department of California, the American Legion, was suspended not because of its expressed views about adjusted compensation, but because its membership did not conform to the legally adopted policies of the national and department organizations. This is the announcement made by Morgan Keaton, adjutant of the California department, who has written posts in the principal cities of the country explaining the stand of the officials.The post went on record as unfavorable to passage of the adjusted compensation measure, and Department Commander James F. Collins promptly suspended the post and called for surrender of its charter until the department had time to act. The executive committee sanctioned this act of the commander.Post officials have since announced that they will take their fight for reinstatement to the national organization, but the matter must first be considered by the department convention.
Keaton's letter to other posts of the organization, says:"This suspension should not be confused as any attempt on the part of the State department to repress or coerce Daylight post, or is the question or adjusted compensation involved; nor is the question of free speech involved; but is simply to be clearly understood to mean that Daylight post or any other post must agree to conform with the legally adopted policies of the American Legion or withdraw therefrom. A man or post cannot serve two masters or support two opposite causes. If Daylight post wishes to oppose adjusted compensation it has that right, and its method in doing so is to withdraw and join those who are opposed to it, because the Legion favors the adjusted compensation as a result of deliberations in five national conventions,and there every unit belonging to the Legion must of necessity adopt the same policy."Veterans Are Urged to Beware of SharpersThe American Legion is warning all veterans against paying any fees to attorneys who offer to secure a certificate issued in lieu of lost discharge.
In a recent letter from Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee, instances were mentioned where unscrupulous attorneys were seeking fees for this work, when the government furnishes the certificates without charge.Mr. Miller advises all veterans to either apply direct to the adjutant general of the army or to write the service bureau of the American Legion, 417 Bond building, Washington, who will handle the case without charge.Bridgeton (N. J.) Post to Aid New HospitalShoemaker post of the American Legion in Bridgeton, N. J., received a bequest of $4,000 from the father of the man for whom the post was named, with the request that it be used for erecting a memorial building.
The Legionnaires, impressed with the possibilities for service to the community offered by erection of a new hospital in Bridgeton, authorized the turning over of this bequest to the building fund for the institution. The generosity of the Legionnaires will be marked by a special room dedicated to the men who gave their lives during the World war.Legion Men as Scout LeadersA class of 25 Legionnaires are busy in Bloomington, Ill., receiving instruction from scout leaders so that they may take charge of troops of boy scouts in that city. The Legion in Illinois is greatly interested and Louis E. Davis post of Bloomington, one of the strongest posts in the state, will sponsor practically all troops in that city, which are to be in charge of the Legion.RECENT REAL ESTATE

Record of Work Of Junior League

Interesting Reports of Year's Activities in Baby Welfare Work and Sewing Show Great Accomplishment.

The Junior League of Kingston, whose activity and accomplishments in a public way have met with marked success since its organization some time ago, held its annual meeting last week at the home of Mrs. Walter Lovett, when the following officers for 1924-25 were elected:

President, Mrs. Robert R. Rodie. Vice-President, Miss Florence E. Cordts. Secretary, Mrs. Andrew Carl. Treasurer, Mrs. G. Wallace Codwise.

Board of Directors, Mrs. Charles A. Warren, Mrs. Harold F. King and others of The League.

Membership Committee, Miss Ruth Shafte, Mrs. Newton H. Fessenden, Miss Sarah Horton.

Following the meeting, a delightful tea was served.

Fete Was Big Success.

The report of Mrs. Codwise, as treasurer, showed expenditures during the year of $1,435. The largest item was for expenses in connection with The Junior League Fete, which was given at the armory on Thanksgiving Eve, from which the receipts were $2,002.07, giving a net balance from the fete of $1,448.35. The other expenses of The Junior League during the year were practically all for milk for babies throughout the city and for the salary and expenses of The Junior League nurse, Miss Doris Hasbrouck.

Practical Things Accomplished.

The report of Miss Florence E. Cordts, chairman of the sewing committee, showed some of the work accomplished by The Junior League during the year, as follows:

The following is the report of the work done by the sewing committee for the year beginning October 1, 1923, and ending May 31, 1924:

For our Baby Welfare Work we made 18 dresses, 12 sacks, 10 ker-tresses, 62 diapers, which were used in making up layettes; also 8 rompers and 12 gowns for one (1) year old children.

In the fall we made 10 flannel nightgowns of various sizes for State Charities' Aid children in Ulster county, the material being donated by the county.

We found time to complete most attractive milkmaid costumes which The League members wore at our big dance Thanksgiving time. These were designed by one of our members.

Besides this, we hommed 17 dozen towels and 10 dozen napkins for the Kingston City Hospital.

Let me take this opportunity to thank all the members of the League for their splendid cooperation with the sewing, and most of all the members of the sewing committee who gave so much of their time to the cutting and preparation of the work.

Respectfully submitted, FLORENCE E. CORDTS, Chairman.

Year's Baby Welfare Work.

Mrs. Rodie, chairman of the baby welfare committee, submitted the following report of the year's activities of The Junior League in connection with that work:

In June, 1923, the president re-appointed Mrs. Robert R. Rodie chairman of the Welfare Committee.

A committee appointed by the chairman, consisting of four members, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Codwise, Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. Van Slyke, held one regular meeting each month, at which time weekly reports covering the nurse's work were read. In addition to these, special meetings were called by the chairman.

The personnel of the committee was changed during the year by the appointment of Mrs. LeFevre in October, 1923, Mrs. King and Mrs. Chambers in February, 1924, and the resignation of Mrs. Van Slyke in January, 1924.

A fiscal year, running from April 1st to March 31st has been adopted by the committee.

Miss Hasbrouck, R. N., engaged by the committee in May, 1923, as Child Welfare Nurse, continued to serve four hours daily at a salary of $50 a month and expenses.

During the summer months the nurse visited sick babies in their homes, where she was sent by the family physicians; besides cases sent directly by the doctors, the nurse found a great many by personal investigation and also by delivering birth certificates to young mothers, who are glad to receive information regarding baby hygiene and to whom the nurse distributes, where necessary, complete layettes made by the league.

A card index of cases is maintained at the office of the Board of Health for inspection by any local physician, and the State Sanitary Inspector.

The purchase of a baby scale in June has been followed by its constant use.

Mothers' clubs, established by the league nurse, in two sections of the city, meet once a week and have babies weighed; and suggestions as to proper clothing, personal hygiene and the beneficial results of an early consultation with the family physician are laid before prospective mothers, and state literature distributed.

In addition to the work carried on through our nurse, there is a milk fund by means of which milk has been provided regularly for three babies.

At the first regular October meeting the Baby Welfare Committee it was decided that the work of the nurse had grown to such an extent that a room where babies could be weighed and measured, a precautionary stops in the prevention of sickness, would afford the nurse more time to spend in attendance on sick babies in their homes. The chairman was, therefore, authorized by the committee to write a letter, asking permission of the Board of Health to use one of its rooms for that purpose. At the regular Board of Health meeting, held October 8th, 1923, the committee, meeting place in hold, regular

Francis Lowest Since March

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 2.—Selling of French francs on the exchange market today carried the price down to 4.95 cents to lowest touched since last March.

Part of the selling was attributed to bankers with German affiliations and part to the attack made by Edouard Herriot, probable successor to Former Premier Poincare, against the terms of the $100,000,000 loan granted to the French by J. P. Morgan & Company. There are indications that the Bank of France has withdrawn its support of the franc temporarily.

The regular monthly meeting of the Roundout Yacht Club will be held at the club house Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The new addition to the club house has been completed by Joseph Southard, who had the carpentry contract for the addition.

conferences for well babies, was read and the board very kindly moved that the request be granted.

Therefore, since November, weekly conferences for well babies have been held at the City Hall, where a model layette and baby tray are on exhibition and where the nurse, assisted by a Junior League member, measures and weighs babies and children of pre-school age, and teaches mothers proper milk formulae and diets for their children. If it is found that any of these children are in need of medical attention, the nurse sends them to their own family physician.

At the league fete held November 23rd, 1923, the committee displayed a model nursery and exhibited a complete layette furnished by the State Department of Health.

In February we were fortunate in securing further cooperation from the Board of Health, which appointed a committee, consisting of Dr. Day and Dr. Norwood, to work with us. Dr. Day was succeeded on this committee by Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck at the expiration of Dr. Day's term on the board.

On April 28th and 29th, 1924, Miss Brown, secretary of the Junior Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, addressed the school children of the city, and left literature which is being distributed by our nurse.

On May 1st, 1924, the committee engaged the nurse for full time at a salary of $100 a month and $15.00 a month for the use of her car in her work.

The following is a report of the activities of the nurse from May 1st, 1923, to April 30th, 1924:

McKINLEY STATUE UNVEILED AT WALDEN ON FRIDAY.

Appropriate to Memorial Day was the unveiling in Walden Friday of a monument to William McKinley, martyred president of the United States, friend of Colonel Thomas W. Bradley, and friend of the workingmen of Walden. The unveiling of the monument, a heroic statue of McKinley, was the culmination of the Memorial Day exercises.

The statue, which stands in McKinley Square at the intersection of Orange Avenue and Main street, was erected in appreciation of the interest of William McKinley in Walden's interest and in gratitude for the friendship for Walden he displayed as a member of congress and president of the United States. Col. Bradley, his friend and comrade, provided in his will for the erection of the monument as a present from the workingmen of Walden. Properly, the Hon. Arthur S.

Tompkins, supreme court justice, who was a friend of both Mr. McKinley and Mr. Bradley, made the address of the day.

He eloquently dwelt on the extra significance that was attached to the unveiling of the monument on Memorial Day. Both men were veterans of the Civil War, and both were pre-eminent in the nation's civil life.

Justice Tompkins eulogized President McKinley and Col. Bradley, and worked into his talk a tribute to the living and dead of those who served with the leaders.

Really Not Her Fault

A lady in great demand socially was duly summoned as a witness in some court proceedings. As she failed to appear a deputy marshal was sent to act as escort. Then the judge explained to her that she was in contempt of court and asked what she had to say. She was manifestly astonished at all this. "I meant no contempt," stated she. "I would have attended the trial gladly, only I had a previous engagement."

Cannot Drive Car Unless Licensed

New State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Has Unlimited Power—Appropriation of $1,100,000 Considered Insufficient for Work.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, June 2.—The new state motor vehicle commissioner, whose office was created by the last legislature, will be clothed with more power than any other state official, with the possible exception of Governor Smith.

Designation of the commissioner is expected to be announced shortly by John B. Gilchrist, president of the state tax commission. He will succeed Robert J. Howard of Kingston, resigned. The salary, which is expected to be $10,000 a year, will be fixed by the tax commission under the new motor vehicle law.

Strict enforcement of the new statute, state officials believe, will be the means of reducing to a minimum the number of fatalities and accidents caused by the operation of automobiles.

The head of the motor vehicle bureau will be empowered to appoint deputies in every county to aid in the enforcement of the law. He also will be able to revoke licenses. There is virtually no end to the number of deputies and inspectors which he may appoint to enforce the new statute.

Every person who drives a car will have to be licensed and no one under 18 will be permitted to operate a machine, under the terms of the law. The commissioner will be able to revoke a license for reckless driving.

A careful record of the driver of every car will be kept at the commissioner's headquarters in Albany. This has never been done before.

The law was drafted at the request of Governor Smith. The governor made a similar request to the 1923 legislature but it was rejected by the Republican assembly.

The legislature appropriated $1,100,000 to carry out the provisions of the new statute. There are many at the capitol who do not believe this amount will be sufficient.

State police will aid in the enforcement of the law.

A SUMMER DANCE FROCK.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The tulle frock makes an instantaneous appeal to the dainty girl who follows the mode as well as the latest dance steps. It is comparatively inexpensive, and such a fairy-like frock for summer evenings. The lovely vision of a white tulle skirt, which spilled itself out of long wavy down to the cool piazza at a recent dance still lingers—a white moth of a gown and as distinctive as one might wish.

The average tulle gown is a thing of at least three ruffles, and often involves two shades, but some have very full skirts sans ruffles and bodices made of folds of satin ribbon or metal cloth with tulle for a top. A dainty dancer who wears flower-like tulle skirts and reveals the secret of their freshness, explained that she hangs her dresses upside down, so that the tulle does not sag. To make a tulle dance frock even more elfin, add ostrich plumes, a greatly desired form of trimming these nights. And before dismissing tulle, make a memorandum about the assortment of the tulle scarfs to make a colored cloud to veil your shoulders—a mode which, after the manner of good fashions, has returned to favor, along with the wearing of natural flowers, the shoulder being chosen for the resting place of a single flower.

The frock sketched is of petunia colored chiffon, black tulle and lace. (Copyright, 1924, Fairchild.)

Fliers Guided in Deep Fog by Radio

Depending solely upon radio for their bearings, Captain W. H. Murphy, radio engineer, and Lieutenant A. J. Lyons, McCook Field pilot, flew 140 miles recently through a dense fog without mishap.

The journey, from Wilbur Wright Field here to Columbus and return, was made to test the practicability of the newly developed radio "finding service." Air service officers said it was proved successful in every detail.

While the plane remained in its course, a sharp letter "T" was sounded at short intervals in Captain Murphy's head phones. When they veered to the left the letter "A" was heard and the letter "N" notified the fliers that they were to the right of their course.

The flight was made through a fog that would have made flying prohibitive without the aid of the radio finding device, it was said.

COMES TO KINGSTON

Every Wednesday and Will Exam-
All Cases Free at 163 Clinton Ave. from 9 a. m. to 12 and 1 to 5 and 7 to 8 p. m.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist
Gives Wonderful Relief To Many Patients After Others Failed.

A young lady was supposed to be suffering from gall stones, and one surgeon claimed it was appendicitis. Four doctors, two of whom were prominent surgeons, had advised this patient that an operation was absolutely necessary. A thorough examination proved it was not a case of gall stones nor appendicitis, but one of obstruction of the bile ducts from catarrhal inflammation and impaction of the gall bladder. Treatment was given immediately which removed the obstruction and reduced the inflammation and in a few days the patient was entirely relieved of all suffering and has since made a complete recovery.

TO RESTORE A HEALTHY STOM-

OTHER DISEASES.

In nine-tenths of the ailments there is some weakness of the stomach and poor assimilation of foods that has caused the more serious disturbance. If you have already developed other disease conditions such as headache, recurring vomiting, gall stones, jaundice or the more distressing disorders of mania, neuritis, neurasthenia, rheumatism or heart weakness, you should at once begin a course of treatment to build up digestive and assimilative functions and the results from such treatment is often astonishing.

If you are suffering from any chronic or obscure disease, you should call to see the doctor, for there will be no charge unless you want treatment.

Doctor's next visit to 163 Clinton Ave., Kingston, on Wednesday, June 4th, from 9 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.; 6:30 to 8 p. m.

Plum Curculio Is Leading Pest

Well Known to Hudson Valley Apple Growers—State Department of Agriculture Suggests Methods for Extirpation.

Apple growers of the Hudson valley need no introduction to the plum curculio. This pest is only too well known in this region, and its destructive activities during the past four years suggest that it should receive more serious consideration from fruit growers. It is especially desired at this time to focus attention on the destructive capacities of the insect and its control in apple orchards. Curculio ranks well in the lead among apple pests in the valley and this is not a guess but has been checked up by growers and spray service men at the time of the injury, during the growing season, at packing time and by the inspectors from the State Department of Agriculture at Albany and by men from Cornell.

The adult curculio is an inconspicuous, ash gray, hard shelled, snout beetle, measuring on the average scarcely one-fourth inch in length. What the beetle lacks in size it makes up in importance, for it is this stage that the pest spends the winter, and it is this adult beetle which produces conspicuous and characteristic crescent-shaped scars on the fruit.

Life History and Injuries.
The adults winter in sheltered places about the orchards, concealing themselves among old leaves, weeds, brush and rubbish, of all kinds. The old stone walls so often surrounding apple orchards of the Hudson river region offers especially attractive hibernation quarters for curculio.

With the approach of spring, the beetles become active and migrate to nearby orchards. Egg laying begins shortly after the apples set, and it is this process which produces the most destructive results of the curculio attack. After depositing the egg just beneath the skin of the fruit, the beetle proceeds to cut a semi-circular slit in the skin of the fruit. This slit expands as the fruit develops, until at the time of maturity of the fruit a large conspicuous wartlike blemish results.

Another source of loss which has not received the consideration it deserves is, that the puncturing of apples as they are forming causes many of them to drop. When apples have grown three quarters of an inch in diameter the punctures have much less effect though the fruits may fall during the thinning process of the tree itself. Besides injuries to the surface of the fruit by the adults, there has been an astonishing amount of damage especially in some plantings here in the Hudson Valley by the grubs which tunnel the apples.

In fruit as small as one-quarter inch in diameter the grubs can and do develop. Apples with a diameter of one inch or more have been observed in which the interior has been completely eaten out, nothing remaining but skin, seed, and inedible portions of the core.

The larvae develop during late May and June in the growing fruit. As the larvae reach their full growth during mid- or late summer they leave the fruits in which they have developed and enter the soil, where they become quiescent and pupate. During late summer the adult beetles emerge from the soil, and feed upon fruits of various kinds. Upon the approach of cold weather they seek their winter quarters along all stone walls and other protected places.

Control Measures.
As with many other insects, attacks by the curculio appear to run in cycles and while the insect was excessively abundant in many localities during the last three years we cannot predict with certainty what it will do this summer. In general the curculio is most destructive in neglected plantings, although during seasons when they are abundant the beetles may cause very heavy losses in well managed orchards. The best horticultural practices are without question most unfavorable for the development of the curculio. Clean farming, and removal of stone walls, old fence rows and similar hibernating places adjoining the orchards thus reducing the hibernating places of the insects is good. Frequent shallow cultivation during July and August destroys many of the pupae.

Spraying.
While all these measures help to reduce the numbers of the insect and should be practiced whenever feasible, still chief reliance should be placed in spraying. The control of the curculio presents a difficult problem to the fruit grower. The spray application must be timely, applied before extensive injury has been done; it must be thoroughly effective, for even a few of the adult beetles allowed to escape the spray can blemish many fruits.

In planning for a spraying program there are several points which should be kept clearly in mind.

(1) In apple orchards the curculio is able to do damage for a period of one month from the time the petals fall. Under average seasonal conditions most of the injury is generally done within a few days, sometimes within ten days after petal fall.

(2) Observations suggest and experimental evidence supports the belief that in regions where the insect is especially destructive to apples, it is fatal to successful control to have wide gaps of time or fruit development between applications of insecticides. Efficient results cannot be secured unless the fruit and foliage are kept well coated. To obtain maximum protection requires not only very thorough spraying but an extra treatment within a week of the calyx spray. The necessity for an extra treatment inheres in the facts that the spraying mixture acts largely as a repellent, the period is one during which the young apples increase rapidly in size and frequent treatments at short intervals are required to prevent the curculios from finding uncovered areas on the surfaces of the fruits.

The spray should be applied just as soon as the first indication of curculio injury is found in the orchard.

In general this spray application should be made three to seven days after the calyx period. If the weather is warm and the fruit is rapidly after the calyx period the curculio attacks will occur very shortly. However, if the weather is cool the insects need to wait the time when the fruit has reached the same size as would occur shortly if the weather was warm. This accounts for the variation in the length of time between the calyx application and the curculio application.

In making this application attention should be given to the outer borders of the orchard, for here the beetles first attack as they migrate into the orchard from their winter quarters.

Since the curculio spray ordinarily should be applied within a few days after the calyx application has been made, it is suggested that in orchards where curculio has been very injurious in past seasons it may be feasible to delay the calyx application so as to combine this with the curculio spray. This will be advisable only where scab has not been serious in past years and the forecasts are for clear weather.

Spray Formula.
Lime-sulfur (testing 32 degrees Baume) 2 1/2 gallons.

Lead Arsenate (powder) three pounds or Lead Arsenate (paste) six pounds.

Hydrated Lime 20-40 pounds.

If red bug control was not satisfactory at the time of the calyx application add: Nicotine Sulfate (40 per cent) one pint.

No dust is recommended now as it is not known whether curculio can be controlled by dusting.

C. C. WAGONER,
Dr. F. H. LATHROP.

She died about 1690 aged, seventy-one. She lived to write the epigrams in Greek, Latin and English for both her husbands.

NEW ENGLAND RAILWAYS.

The first important railway in New England was the Boston and Providence, which was opened eighty-nine years ago today, June 2, 1835. The first railway built in New England was the Granite Branch, a three-mile line from Quincy, Mass., to the Neponset river. The first road regularly incorporated in Massachusetts was the Boston & Lowell, but it was not opened until twenty-five days after the inauguration of traffic on the Boston & Providence line. In the following month the Boston & Worcester Railroad was opened, and before the close of the year Boston was quite a railroad center. Maine's first railway, the Bangor & Piscataquis, running from Bangor to Oldtown, eleven miles, was opened in 1836. The New York, Providence & Boston, operating from Providence to Stonington, Conn., was opened in 1837, and gave the Nutmeg State its first rail transportation. It was fifty miles long, and the greatest railroad system of that era. The Hartford & New Haven, thirty-six miles in length, was opened in 1839. New Hampshire's first road, the Nashua and Lowell, six miles, started service in 1838, and it was not until a decade later that Vermont's first road, the Vermont Central was opened.

THOMAS HARDY.

Greatest of all modern novelists, in the opinion of many competent judges of literature, is Thomas Hardy, who was born in Dorsetshire, England, eighty-four years ago today. For twenty years past Hardy has been devoting his pen principally to the production of verse, but, although his poetical works possess great merit, it is as a novelist that he stands pre-eminent among men of letters. Hardy's verses may not long survive the author, but it is safe to predict that "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" and "Jude the Obscure" will be read as long as the English language endures. It is true that these masterpieces of the master are not altogether pleasant reading. Those who like the sugared, syrupy "kiss" which is the chief characteristic of so many modern novels, will likely agree with the woman who, according to Prof. Phelps of Yale, wrote in one of his books, borrowed from a public library, "Oh, how I hate Thomas Hardy." That so charming a character as Tess should have been led gently but firmly to the gallows is likely to arouse some resentment, but her fate was logical and inevitable, and Hardy is not one to dodge the issue. As for poor Jude, he, too, was marked by fate for an unhappy ending of his checkered career. Disappointed in the great ambition of his life, losing his faith in religion, deserted by the woman he loved after a brief space of happiness which ended in dire tragedy, the story of Jude's life does not make pleasant reading, but it has the undoubted merit of being true to life. It is amusing to recall that English and American readers held up their hands in horror at the alleged "immorality" of "Jude the Obscure," when now we have a whole school of literature devoted to commercializing pornography.

Thomas Hardy began his career as an arch poet. It was fifty-three years ago that he published his first novel, "Desperate Remedies." This was followed by "Under the Greenwood Tree" and "A Pair of Blue Eyes." In 1874 he scored his first great triumph with "Far From the Madding Crowd," perhaps the best of the novels of that early period. It was not until 1891, however, that he entered upon the second phase of his career as a novelist with the publication of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles." That book and "Jude the Obscure" made Hardy a man apart, and gave him a position in the literary world where he has reigned without a peer. The novelist and poet married his secretary, a woman of less than half his years, early in 1914.

Establish New "Central" Monday

There is a rapidly increasing demand for telephone service in Kerhonkson and vicinity and to date it has been taken care of principally by long party lines from the Ellenville office. Of late this has been found decidedly inadequate, particularly for the business houses in the village.

In order to meet this particular condition the program for more extensive telephone facilities in the Ulster and Sullivan county resorts for the busy summer months includes the establishment of a new central office in Kerhonkson which will be cut into service at 9 a. m. June 2nd. This office will thereafter serve subscribers in Kerhonkson and localities adjacent thereto formerly served from Ellenville and will also take in Accord and vicinity, now served from High Falls.

With this new arrangement service in Kerhonkson will be on an individual or four party line basis. The central office will be located in an addition recently constructed by Howard Huniston, the well known undertaker who will also act as agent. A two-position switchboard will be installed with the necessary equipment and will serve about 180 telephones to begin with. Toll circuits have been provided to connect Kerhonkson with the rest of the Bell system.

SCHOOL EXPERIMENT HELPS STUDENTS' EFFICIENCY

The question of what to do with the backward child, the perplexing problem of educators since schools began, seems almost to be answered at last by the results of an experiment made in a Boston public school.

During pleasant weather, backward pupils from all grades in the school carry on their studies in an outdoor class room specially constructed for this purpose in one corner of the school yard.

Sunshine and fresh air, together with hot Horlick's Malted Milk served during recess, morning and afternoon, have worked wonders. The pupils are brighter and more attentive. They are gaining weight, averaging an increase of three pounds the first month. Their eyes and complexions are noticeably clearer. And they are more ambitious to learn.

House Votes to Adjourn June 7

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 2.—While Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the insurgent leader, was making plans at one end of the capitol to block the scheduled adjournment of congress this week, the house of representatives voted this afternoon to wind up the session at 7 p. m. on next Saturday, June 7.

The adjournment resolution, which was passed by a vote of 221 to 157, was offered by Representative Longworth of Ohio, the majority leader.

Immediately after Representative Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, had withdrawn his bill to abolish the United States railroad labor board, The insurgents had been insisting for action on this legislation before congress adjourned.

The adjournment resolution must pass the senate also before it becomes effective and its fate there was in doubt this afternoon in view of the attitude of Senator LaFollette to bring the senate back to Washington after the national political conventions.

REVENUE COMMISSIONER SOLE ARBITER ON LIQUOR.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 2.—The right of the commissioner of internal revenue to limit the number of liquor prescriptions issued by physicians, was partially upheld today by the United States supreme court.

The decision was rendered in the case of S. F. Butler, prohibition director of California, who lost a suit defending his authority to restrict or limit the amount of liquor that may be purchased and sold by druggists.

The supreme court held that the question involving the sale of liquor was vested in the commissioner of internal revenue and that he had the sole right to make decisions in these cases.

Other cases are pending upon the direct question of the right of the government to limit the number of liquor prescriptions which physicians may issue.

Garden Club Ball Wednesday Night

Preparations Nearing Completion—Everyone Interested in Big Improvement at Academy Park, Which Gets Benefit.

Academy Green Ball at the armory on Wednesday evening for the benefit of the fund which The Ulster Garden Club is raising for the permanent improvement of Academy Park promises to outshine in brilliancy and size any social function of the season in Kingston, and will form a fitting close to the season's festivities.

Advance sale of tickets has been large because everybody who enjoys dancing is anxious not only to participate in Kingston's closing dance but also to aid so far as possible in making certain the improvement of Academy Park in accordance with the architect's suggestions submitted to The Ulster Garden Club when that organization undertook this worthy object.

Markel's orchestra, which is being brought to Kingston from New York city by The Garden Club, is well known to every lover of dance music who feels that Kingston is unusual fortunate in securing this well known musical organization, with Markel himself as leader, for the ball.

The pool in Academy Park, which is being presented to the city of Kingston by Mrs. Charles F. Cantine in memory of her husband, the late Judge Cantine, forms the nucleus of the improvement and beautification of Academy Park, and is rapidly nearing completion.

On Sunday, scores of children enjoyed their first experience of playing about the first pool to be established in any park in this city. The pool was filled and the fountain which is the crowning glory of the pool was put in operation, greatly to the delight of men, women and children who from all parts of the city made their way to the park.

The park improvement, in accordance with the landscape architect's plans, has been staked out, and the work of construction will go forward rapidly. It has progressed far enough already for everybody to gain a good idea of its beauty, and unmeasured delight was expressed by all visitors at the pool on Sunday.

Mrs. Cantine's gift makes it possible for the city to possess a park of which any city may feel proud, and the work of the Ulster Garden Club to beautify the entire park is meeting with hearty cooperation.

The Academy Green ball at the armory will present a scene of brilliance seldom equalled. Decorations will be in charge of Mrs. Edward Coykendall and will be of an especially interesting nature. The refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. Williams Carter, president of the club, and general arrangements will be in charge of Mrs. William A. Warren.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

SAN JOSE SCALE IS HARD TO ERADICATE

The San Jose scale shows evidence of a very interesting development. In the Northwest, at least, accumulating evidence seems to point to the fact that this insect is capable of developing strains or races that are immune to the effects of lime-sulphur, says the Rural New Yorker. It is difficult to prove this tendency, but it is evident that where the scale was once satisfactorily controlled by spraying with lime-sulphur it is not now being held in check with this material even when it is applied at the same strength as formerly, and with just as much care and thoroughness as in former years. In fact we have heard during the last few years much complaint from growers in Arkansas, Illinois, and from a few in New York, that lime-sulphur does not kill the scale as it used to do. Can it be that this notorious pest is really becoming resistant to the effects of lime-sulphur, so that we shall have to look for a new material with which to fight it? Only prolonged observations and experiments during the coming years can answer this question. Growers in Arkansas and Illinois have already begun to use oil sprays in place of lime-sulphur, and apparently with much better success in controlling the scale. In New York, however, the problem of the scale does not seem quite so serious as it does in the Mississippi valley; and this agrees with the characteristics of this insect, for it is a notable fact that the San Jose scale varies in different regions in the virulence of its injuries and in its resistance to spray mixtures. For example, Melander of Washington points out that the scale is much more difficult to control in the orchards about Clarkston in the Snake river valley than in those in the region of Wenatchee in the Columbia river valley.

Letter From the Sea

A letter which had been tossed about in the Atlantic for three weeks was recently received by a Plymouth resident. His son, an engineer on a steamer bound for Vancouver, placed the letter in a sealed tin with a flag attached, and dropped it overboard. Three weeks later the tin was washed ashore on the Azores Islands, where it was found by fishermen, who forwarded the letter by post.—London Tit-Bits.

His Choice

"Who is your favorite poet, Mr. Gloom?" asked Tennyson J. Dart, the versatile versificationist.

"Any of the dead ones," snapped J. Fuller Gloom, the human hyena.—Kansas City Star.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 2.—Heaviness marked trading at the opening of the stock market today. Both industrial and railroad shares ruled fractionally lower, but public utilities showed firmness. North American improved fractionally to 25%, and Consolidated Gas ¼ to 65%. U. S. Steel lost ¾ to 95%.

Price changes were insignificant and transactions extremely small in the foreign trading. The trend toward slightly lower levels, but the desultory and unconvincing manner in which pressure was applied bore evidence that even the professional element, whose dominance of the market was again complete, was by no means strong.

The initial selling came entirely from professional sources, but later bearish tactics were abandoned. Values stiffened moderately in the second hour, but buying was of a most indiscriminate character, being confined to investment issues, like General Electric and Pullman and Public Utilities. North American, Utah securities and Consolidated Gas were in excellent demand. Purely speculative shares rallied a bit on short covering, but they continued to display a wavering tendency.

Little interest was displayed in the railway list. Prices followed an uneven course, but did not get anywhere in particular. Canadian Pacific, selling ex-dividend, was strong. Call money renewed at 3 per cent.

Gibbons Was Very Cautious

Gorgeous Georges' Right Connected Once Which Prompted Gibbons To Be Super-Cautious—Frenchman's Alleged Sprained Ankle Failed To Open Gibbons's Defense.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 2.—It required no elastic imagination to understand why Tom Gibbons remained, as was, for fifteen rounds with Jack Dempsey at Shelby, after watching the St. Paul entry, slip punch after punch from Carpenter's right with his agile and intelligent head, at Michigan City on Saturday. Not a few chronic doubters have maintained that Dempsey was very kind, not to say courteous, to Gibbons, at Shelby, but to see Gibbons on Saturday was to disbelieve this theory. We doubt that the man ever lived who could knock Gibbons out if the latter was in there for the sole purpose of staying. He is by long odds the greatest defensive boxer in the ring today.

The common impression among ringsiders on Saturday was that Carpenter had gone away back behind the form of the nimble figure that faced Dempsey several years ago.

Charley White, Chicago lightweight who viewed Saturday's proceedings with an interested eye, takes violent exception. He admits the obvious, to wit, that Georges was slower on his feet, but claimed that the Frenchman was punching faster and better than the day he met Dempsey. It is White's opinion that Carpenter would have knocked out any light heavyweight in the world, barring Gibbons.

"You don't want to forget that Carpenter was punching at a faster target, in Gibbons, than he was against Dempsey," asserted Charles. "Gibbons's speed naturally would make Carpenter's punches look slower. But, in my opinion, they were faster than the day he met Dempsey. They would have knocked out nine out of ten big men boxing today but in Gibbons they were being sent after a man who was always one jump ahead of them."

White has no plausible explanation for Gibbons's failure to stop Carpenter when he had the latter helpless through the final four rounds, neither has anyone else. Some say it was Tom's humane instincts. We doubt that. He had too much at stake and a knockout would have added 100 per cent to the prestige of his victory.

What is more likely is that super-caution prompted Gibbons to refrain from attempting anything hasty. He had been hit with that right in the fourth round and wanted no more of it. Also, he had been duly informed of the Frenchman's reputation for cunning and probably figured that Carpenter's simulation of a sprained ankle might very well be excellent dramatics, staged as a possible means of opening up Gibbons's defense. The fact that Georges let fly with several rights while hobbling away may have lent color to this supposition.

In any case, Gibbons did let down in the last two rounds, from super-caution, super-sportsmanship or what not. We cannot conceive of the typical ring "killer," such as Dempsey, lending himself to any of these unprofessional promptings. An opponent's injured ankle simply would have been accepted as a lucky break by Dempsey.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUE.

The Giants came back toward the field when the Braves mangled four pitchers for 17 hits, while New York made seven errors, Boston winning 11 to 6.

Aldridge bested Morrison in a hot pitcher's duel, the Cubs winning over the Pirates 2 to 1 and cutting down the Giants' lead less than two games.

Cobb took a big part in the Tigers' victory over the Indians, 10 to 6, crashing out four hits, one of them a homer. The defeat sent the Indians to a tie for last place.

The Dodgers again came from behind and defeated the Phillies in the ninth, 8 to 7. The victory brought the Robins to within three games of the Giants.

Although very wild, Sothorn pitched effectively while his teammates knocked Donohue off the mound, the Cards winning from the Reds 6 to 2.

Knocking two pitchers off the mound the White Sox scored a hollow victory over the Browns, 7 to 4.

The Ideal State

Education and good morals will be found to be almost the whole that goes to make a good man, and the same things will make a good statesman and a good king. The truest definition of a complete citizen that can be given is probably this: That he shares in the judicial and executive part of the government. A state, consisting of a multitude of human beings, ought to be brought to unity and community by education.

All Stars Lose To Maybrook

The All Stars lost to Maybrook Memorial Day in the railroad town by the score of 8-0. Steve Connolly, pitching his first semi-pro game, allowed the hard hitting railroaders but seven hits.

The local club had hard luck in the 6th when Connolly singled to center. Sickler then drove a hot one through short. Lynch running for Connolly was called out on second. Chester singled, Sickler being out on another bad decision at second. Harris then hit to the infield ending the inning.

In the seventh Fescoco singled. Van Shelt sacrificed him to second. Weller drove one to left, scoring Fescoco. Tromper then hit to Stumph for an easy out. Weller scored on Keegan's error of Leibert's fly. Bignall hit to Steve, who threw him out, ending the inning with two runs for Maybrook.

In the ninth very costly errors together with three hits netted six more runs for Maybrook.

Maybrook has one of the fastest clubs in the state, recently defeating such clubs as Danbury K. of C. Crescents of Newburgh, champs of Orange County League, the Red Sox and several other fast clubs. The local club has been booked to play again June 15th, when they will try to even matters up.

Teach her now to appreciate the better things in life. Homes that are to be a credit to the nation must be conceived in the minds of those who know the value and culture of things real. Hundreds of things you can give her of course will give her a thrill of happiness. A gift of Sterling Silver will give her that—and something more. A beautiful vision of the time when it will beautify her home—useful, lasting, and a cherished possession—but it must be Sterling.
